INTRODUCTION AND BACKGROUND

1.0 Introduction and Business Context

The food industry in Cameroon represents one of the most promising sectors for entrepreneurial development, particularly in Yaoundé, the political capital, which hosts over 4 million inhabitants with diverse and growing food consumption needs. Among the most culturally significant and widely consumed food items in Cameroon are beignets (fried dough fritters), haricot (red beans served with plantain or bread), and bouillie (corn, millet, or rice porridge), which together form the foundation of the traditional Cameroonian breakfast. These three items transcend social class, ethnicity, and age, serving as a unifying culinary experience enjoyed daily by students, civil servants, traders, families, workers, and residents across the country.

Despite this enormous and consistent demand, the street food market in Yaoundé and Cameroon more broadly remains largely dominated by informal vendors who operate with limited hygiene standards, inconsistent product quality, no structured business framework, unreliable food safety practices, and minimal customer service. According to market observations, approximately 70% of urban workers in Yaoundé consume street food daily, yet these consumers face persistent challenges including unhygienic preparation environments (open-air cooking near dusty roadsides), inconsistent taste and portion sizes, lack of branding or accountability, absence of standardized pricing, and limited options for customers who value cleanliness and convenience alongside affordability.

The informal street food sector, while providing affordable nourishment to millions, suffers from critical gaps that present both risks to consumers and opportunities for entrepreneurial innovation:

Hygiene and Food Safety Concerns

- Street vendors often prepare food in unhygienic open-air environments exposed to dust, pollution, and insects.
- Basic hygiene facilities like clean water and hand-washing stations are usually lacking.
- Cooking tools, oil, and ingredients are frequently reused without proper cleaning or quality control.
- Most vendors operate without any food safety regulation or certification.

Inconsistent Quality

- Food taste, portion sizes, and quality vary widely between vendors and even daily.
- The absence of standardized recipes leads to unpredictable customer experiences.
- Poor storage practices often affect the freshness of ingredients.

Lack of Branding and Customer Trust

- Informal vendors operate without branding, making them hard to identify or differentiate.
- Customers have no accountability or recourse in case of poor quality or food issues.
- There are no structured systems for customer feedback or complaints.

Limited Convenience and Modern Expectations

- Most vendors lack seating, shelter, and proper takeaway packaging.
- Operating hours are inconsistent and depend on the vendor.

The gap between high market demand and unmet customer expectations creates a strong business opportunity. There is a clear need for a hygienic, well-managed, and customer-focused food business offering traditional Cameroonian breakfast items (beignets, haricot, and bouillie) with consistent quality, fair pricing, and strong branding.

Sunrise BHB Factory Shop was created to fill this gap by transforming street food into a clean, branded, and reliable fast-casual experience.

This report outlines the advertising campaign, including the design and distribution of ten Photoshop flyers, customer engagement efforts, challenges faced, and results achieved

6.0 COMPETITIVE ANALYSIS

Competition in the breakfast food market in the Obili and Warda area comes from the following:

1. Informal Street Vendors (Primary Competitors)

There are approximately 50-80 beignet and bouillie vendors operating within 1 km of Carrefour Obili and Warda. These are predominantly women operating from small tables or carts.

Strengths:

- ✚ Very low prices (some offer 5 beignets for as low as 50 FCFA)
- ✚ Established customer relationships and loyalty

- ✚ Minimal overhead costs
- ✚ Convenient locations (directly on sidewalks)

Weaknesses:

- ✚ Inconsistent quality and hygiene

- ✚ Slightly better hygiene than informal vendors
- ✚ Regular hours
- ✚ Some variety in offerings

Weaknesses:

- ✚ Still lack formal branding
- ✚ Limited marketing
- ✚ Higher prices than informal vendors without significant quality improvement

3. Restaurants and Cafés (Indirect Competitors)

A small number of restaurants and cafés in the area offer breakfast options, but these typically cater to a higher-income clientele and do not focus on traditional items like beignets and haricot.

Strengths:

- ✚ Formal setting, good hygiene

- ✚ Diverse menu

Weaknesses:

- ✚ Higher prices (breakfast can cost 1,000 - 3,000 FCFA)

B. CAPCUT VIDEO PRODUCTION

Video production for the Sunrise BHB Factory Shop campaign was carried out using CapCut, a mobile editing tool chosen for its ease of use, flexibility, and compatibility with social media formats. Raw video clips were captured using a smartphone, focusing on key moments such as food preparation, product display, and customer interactions.

The editing process involved trimming clips, arranging sequences, and enhancing visuals with transitions, text overlays, and background music. Special attention was given to using trending sounds and short-form formats to increase engagement on platforms like TikTok and Instagram. Branding elements such as colors, captions, and call-to-action texts were consistently applied to maintain a professional identity.

The main types of videos produced included:

- Product showcase videos highlighting the appearance and quality of meals
- Behind-the-scenes videos showing food preparation and hygiene practices

All videos were optimized in terms of duration, resolution, and format to suit different platforms, ensuring maximum reach, engagement, and impact.

CUSTOMER ENGAGEMENT AND CONVERSION

The campaign focused on converting social media interactions into real customer relationships by encouraging users to engage, inquire, and visit the shop. Emphasis was placed on simple, fast, and direct communication channels to reduce barriers between the brand and potential customers.

1. Capturing Customer Information

Customer information was primarily captured through:

- ✚ Direct messages on social media platforms (Facebook, Instagram, TikTok)
- ✚ Comments and replies on posts
- ✚ In-person interactions at the shop

Basic details such as customer preferences, frequently ordered items, and feedback were noted to better understand customer needs and improve service delivery.

2. Lead Magnets (Engagement-Based Offers)

To attract and engage potential customers, the campaign used simple but effective incentives such as:

- ✚ Combo meal promotions (e.g., “Buy 5 beignets, get 1 free”)
- ✚ Limited-time discounts (“Today only”)
- ✚ Special morning offers for students (“Morning special”)

These offers encouraged users to interact with posts, ask questions, and visit the shop, thereby increasing engagement and conversion opportunities.

3. Contact Forms and Direct Messaging Integration

Instead of complex forms, the campaign prioritized direct messaging as the main communication tool. Customers could easily:

- ✚ Ask for prices
- ✚ Check availability
- ✚ Get directions to the shop

Platforms like Facebook and Instagram were used to ensure fast responses, making communication more personal and effective.

CHALLENGES AND SOLUTIONS

RISK MANAGEMENT & CONTINGENCY PLAN FOR SUNRISE BHB FACTORY

No campaign is without risk. The following risks have been identified along with practical mitigation strategies to ensure the campaign remains on track regardless of challenges encountered.

1. Low Organic Reach

Risk: Organic posts underperform due to algorithm changes or low initial following.

Mitigation: Boost top-performing posts with paid spend; leverage influencer shares; post consistently at peak engagement hours (7–10 AM, 1–5 PM, 7–9 PM).

2. Content Delays

Risk: Flyers or video content are not ready on schedule, disrupting the content calendar.

Mitigation: Batch-produce all 10 Photoshop flyers before Day 1 of the campaign; pre-record videos in advance and schedule them using Buffer or Meta Business Suite.

3. Negative Comments or PR Issues

Risk: Negative public comments or reviews on social media posts about Sunrise BHB.

Mitigation: Respond promptly and professionally to all comments; never delete negative comments unless they violate community standards; have a pre-drafted response template for common complaints.

4. Ad Account Restrictions

Risk: Facebook or TikTok ad accounts are flagged or restricted during the campaign.

Mitigation: Ensure all ads comply with platform policies before launch; use a Business Manager account with verified payment methods; have a backup ad account ready.

5. Budget Overspend

Risk: Paid ad spend exceeds the planned budget.

Mitigation: Set strict daily budget caps in Meta Ads Manager and TikTok Ads Manager; review spend daily and pause underperforming ads immediately.
